> com.android.ide.common.process.ProcessException: Failed to execute aapt You can always solve this React Native Android build error by running: cd .. Hence, everything should be entered manually and carefully. Using React Native CLI First of all, make sure your Android project is error free. You can create one using the keytool in the terminal with the following command: keytool -genkey -v -keystore my-release-key.keystore -alias my-release-key.keystore -keyalg RSA -keysize 2048 -validity 10000 Once you run the keytool utility, you'll be prompted to type in a password. As a result, it generates a key-store file on your project directory named my-release-key.keystore valid for 10000 days. We are laying out here the most frequent React Native build errors that we ran into, to save you time and headaches. At Instamobile, we launched all of our React Native Templates to production (Google Play Store demos), so we are familiar with the process as well as the errors that might show up when generating a React Native Release Build APK for Android. [unknown]: Dean Williams What is the name of your organizational unit? This is the final step of generating a React Native Release Build for Android. To prompt for password with the Gradle build file, change the above config as: signingConfigs { release { storeFile file('your_key_name.keystore') storePassword 'your_key_store_password' keyAlias 'your_key_alias' keyPassword 'your_key_alias_password' } } buildTypes { release { incremental java compilation is an incubating feature. :app:preBuild UP-TO-DATE :app:preReleaseBuild UP-TO-DATE :app:checkReleaseManifest :app:preDebugBuild UP-TO-DATE :app:prepareComAndroidSupportAppcompatV72381Library :app:prepareComAndroidSupportSupportV42301Library :app:prepareComFacebookBuiTextLayoutBuilderTextLayoutBuilder100Library :app:prepareComFacebookFrescoFresco130Library :app:prepareComFacebookFrescoFresco130Library :app:prepareComFacebookFrescoImagepipeline130Library :app:prepareComFacebookFrescoImagepipelineBase130Library :app:prepareComFacebookFrescoImagepipelineDns130Library } } This is not a good security practice since you store the password in plain text. Release APK Generation Place your terminal directory to android using: cd android For Windows, gradlew assembleRelease For Linux and Mac OSX: ./gradlew assembleRelease As a result, the APK creation process is done. You'll need to enable debugging options on your phone to run this apk. In this tutorial, we are going to learn how to generate a React Native Release Build APK for Android, using both React Native CLI and Android Studio IDE. Thus, click on OK, then click on Next. There are two ways of configuring the project with keystore. This key uses key-size 2048, instead of default 1024 for security reason. signingConfig signingConfigs.release } } This is not a good security practice since you store the password in plain text. Step 1: Set Up Your Android Production Environment In order to build the APK (the format of the app that you'll upload to the Google Store), you need to install Android Studio. Make sure you remember the password: You can change your key name with any name you want, as well as your key alias. As a result, a build should start after which you should see both app-release.apk and app-armabi-v7a-release.apk inside of android/app/release in your project. Mind you, this is not yet ready for publishing, and there are quite a few things you'll need to do to before you can publish. This is an important feature because if you manage your own keys and you lose them, you will no longer be able to release updates for your app. Time to distribute your app to the Google Play Store. Adding Keystore to your project Firstly, you need to copy the file your_key_name.keystore and paste it under the android/app directory in your React Native project folder. On Terminal, mv my-release-key.keystore /android/app You need to open your android/app/build.gradle file and add the keystore configuration. It is similar to the .exe file you have on Windows OS, a .apk file is for android. Note: If you need to have a new key password, then type it in. We are documenting our learnings in this React Native tutorial, to help mobile developers ship their Android apps to production more quickly. rm -rf android/app/src/main/res/drawable-* react-native bundle --platform android --dev false --entry-file index.js --bundle-output android/app/build/intermediates/res/merged/release/cd android && ./gradlew assembleRelease These are steps to generate a Release Signed APK in React Native for Android applications, that can be published to the Google Play Console. Conclusion Congratulations on completing this React Native Android Build tutorial using both React Native CLI and Android Studio. A debug .apk file will allow you to install and test your app before publishing to app stores. You can find the generated APK at android/app/build/outputs/apk/app-release.apk. Moreover, before going any further, make sure you have an assets folder under android/app/src/main/assets. [unknown]: XX Your terminal output will look similar to this: Press Enter when you're prompted to enter the password for . Then run the following command to build the bundle. * What went wrong: Execution failed for task ':app:processReleaseResources'. Most importantly, make sure you have SDK version 27 as this is what React Native uses. This key uses key-size 2048, instead of default 1024 for security reason. Step 2. You can create one using the keytool in the terminal with the following command: keytool -genkey -v -keystore your_key_name.keystore -alias your_key_alias -keyalg RSA -keysize 2048 -validity 10000 Once you run the keytool utility, you'll be prompted to type in a password. We hope you found this tutorial enlightening.
